The contrivance worked very satisfactorily when given the first try-out this noon until the sharp-shouldered runner caught in the groove of the track and stood upon end. Whereupon the rider and the underlith slush connected suddenly in a rather unpleasant fashion.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Gazette, Feb. 11, 1868.—Improving.—We are gratified to learn that the condition of Rev. Mr. Dodge's children is improving, and the indications are now that they will get well.

Sweltering.—At this rate the weather will soon get uncomfortably hot. It was twenty-four degrees warmer this morning than it was yesterday. Then it was thirty-four degrees below zero; this morning it was only ten. It really begins to feel oppressive.

An Insipid Fire.—Yesterday afternoon, the roof shop of the C. & N. W. railway, at this place took fire in the roof near the chimney. Prompt measures prevented any damage. The fire was supposed to have been communicated through the overhanging of the brick work of the chimney.

Kingsmen, Canada.—A fire broke out in the bank of Montreal this evening but was extinguished after vigorous exertions on the part of the firemen. The building was greatly damaged throughout its entire extent, by smoke and water. Two women servants were nearly suffocated. The loss cannot be estimated at present.

Accepted.—The Minnesota State of Deers and Legislature have accepted the invitation of the Wisconsin Legislature to visit Madison at an early date. As yet the time of the visit has not been fixed.

A resolution offered today by General Butler of Wisconsin, for the removal of the seat of the Government to the valley of the Mississippi, was lost by only twenty votes. Nearly all the western members voted for it, and had there been a full house it would probably have been adopted.

Getting Nervous.—If reports from Washington may be believed, Mr. Johnson and his friends are getting nervous over the situation. By his own confession the President has been guilty of ordering an army officer to disobey his superior thus disregarding the tenure of office law, and has thereby got himself into an unpleasant predicament. And it is not at all unlikely that in this matter he has given the friends of impeachment just what they desired in order to be able to proceed against him. At any rate he imagines he sees the hand writing on the wall and is alarmed.

WILLIAM A. ROCKEFELLER.

This is the portrait of William A. Rockefeller, the father of John D. Rockefeller, published by McClure's Magazine, which some residents of Freeport, Ill., believe to be a picture of Dr. William Livingston of that city. Dr. Livingston died two years ago. The New York World believes it has enough evidence to declare the old king's father and Dr. Livingston were the same person.

For 36 years Dr. Livingston had lived in Freeport as a traveling physician and vendor of medicines, which had been the business of the older Rockefeller. The suspicion of his dual life was aroused by the publication of a photograph of William A. Rockefeller in McClure's Magazine of July, 1906. Its remarkable resemblance to Livingston was commented upon by residents, who declared it was an actual portrait of their fellow citizen. The points of resemblance in the McClure article were not confined to physical resemblance. The older Rockefeller was spoken of as a man full of the joy of life, jovial, generous, free, and even coarse spoken. He is referred to as an expert shot and fond of horses. These were characteristics of Livingston.

William Rockefeller was described as a traveling doctor, who sold concoctions of his own manufacture. Dr. Livingston, who was not a regular graduate of medicine, pursued the same business. He went away on trips, during which he did not communicate with his wife. He was loyal to her, however, despite the present allegations that when he married his first wife, the mother of John D. Rockefeller, was still alive.

CONGRESSMAN A. J. SABATH.

Congressman Sabath of Chicago is the man who believes there should be a federal prevention of future marriages between American girls and foreign noblemen who come after hard-earned American coin. The ways and means committee is now considering his bill imposing a "tax" upon all dowries, gifts, settlements or advances of property made in consideration of or in contemplation of marriage by citizens or subjects of the United States of America. The tax is fixed at 25 per cent of the dowry and the secretary of the treasury is authorized to adopt and enforce the rules and regulations for its collection. In this connection it is interesting to note that during the last 12 to 14 years something like $900,000,000 has been taken out of the country by foreigners who marry American girls. In other

MRS. WM. CLELAND OF JANSVILLE

Tells of Remarkable Eczema Cure Effected by Simple External Wash.

Tiffany, Wis. It is with feelings of heartfelt gratitude that I voluntarily add my testimony to your great remedy, D. D. D. I suffered sixteen years with Eczema. It caused such intense itching I could hardly stand it. I went to many prominent physicians and skin specialists and paid out hundreds of dollars, but to no relief. I have used five bottles of D. D. D. and am cured. I am sorry that I did not know of this "Remedy" sooner.

MRS. WM. CLELAND.

Isn't this a remarkable proof of the value of D. D. D. Prescription?

You can secure just such a cure yourself by securing this simple safe wash which takes right hold on your diseased skin. Isn't it worth while to be cured of those horrible unsightly irritating blotches and sores? Instant relief—a complete cure—from Eczema will cost you less by using D. D. D. Prescription than even one visit to a doctor for advice.

You take absolutely no chance, D. D. D. Prescription is an external soothing wash. No drugs to go into your stomach. We urge and recommend our friends to try D. D. D. Prescription. Also D. D. D. Soap, J. P. Baker and Helms' Cream. It won't cost you much to try this remedy. It will cure your skin disease. Call at our store for free booklet on the care of nutrition of the skin with directions as to exercise, diet, etc.

Let our chef cook for you. He knows better than you do how to bake beans

This is his specialty—his sole occupation—his one claim to supremacy. And he has the facilities.

He has ovens so hot that they break down the fibre of beans and make them digestible. You cannot do that.

He bakes in live steam, so the beans are baked well without browning or bursting. Our beans are nutty, yet mealy.

Our ovens are heated to 245 degrees. That's why our beans are digestible

We get better beans than you get. And we pay for them seven times what some beans would cost.

Our sauce is made from vine-ripened tomatoes. It costs us just five times what some sauce is sold for.

Then we bake the beans, the tomato sauce and the pork all together. Thus we get our delicious blend.

Van Camp's pork and beans baked with tomato sauce

Beans are Nature's choicest food when they are rightly baked. They are 23 per cent nitrogenous—84 per cent nutritive.

That's about the same as the food value of beef, but note what a difference in cost. Beans should be a daily food.

Get Van Camp's beans, and your people will want them often. Then see what you save on your meat bills.

You will never be content with home-baked beans after you once know ours

Van Camp's are always ready. Heat the can in hot water—then open. It will seem as if the beans were fresh from the oven.

When you are tired, here's a meal without labor. When you are hurried, here's a meal in ten minutes. And such a meal! What do you know that compares with it?

But be sure to get Van Camp's. Other brands won't suit.

10, 15 and 20¢ per can.

A Game of Chance. Good negatives are very largely a matter of accident, writes Glen Edgerton, in the Craftsman. Given the utmost care and wisdom in the selection of subjects and time, it is nevertheless true that the novice may secure with his kodak a more artistic negative than the trained veteran, and that the veteran himself will get the most artistic negative largely as a result of chance.

Too Fond of His Own Goods. Marie Lloyd, the English music-hall star, had been describing at a dinner an actor whose career drink had ruined. "Yes," said Miss Lloyd, "he was a frightful drinker. As hard a drinker, in fact, as an ancient York-shire tavern keeper on whose tomb is inscribed: 'He has lost his best customer.'"

In Addition to a Fat Graveyard. Or, to put it another way: "A sloppy winter makes a big doctor's bill."

HONORABLE MOTY TIGER.

Honorable Moty Tiger is a full-blooded Indian, 65 years old. President Roosevelt recently appointed him head of the Creek nation in the Indian Territory. This is a rather unique power which the president has, that of appointing chiefs of Indian nations. The Creeks, like the Cherokees, have a regularly organized government with elected representatives and two chiefs—a principal chief, corresponding to a president, and an assistant chief, corresponding to a vice-president. Chief Tiger speaks English well, but prefers to carry on his official business in his native tongue through an interpreter. He is a versatile Indian, as his records show. He enlisted in the civil war as a private and served through the whole period of that conflict. Later he was Tribal peace officer, a member of both branches of the Creek legislature and also district judge, attorney general, school superintendent, prosecuting attorney and second chief. Furthermore, he is an ordained minister of the Methodist Episcopal church and conducts services in his native tongue.

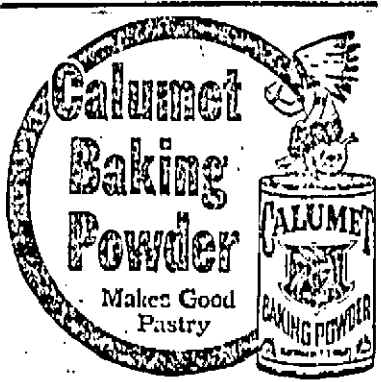

CONGRESSMAN J. WARREN KEIFER OF OHIO.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 12.—Representative J. Warren Keifer of Ohio, chairman of the sub-committee on pensions of the house committee on appropriations, says that his committee has practically agreed to recommend a pension roll of $150,000,000 for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1909. This is about $7,000,000 in excess of the pension roll of the present fiscal year. Anything which works an advantage to the old soldier is a pleasant duty to Congressman Keifer, for he himself is a veteran with a splendid record. He hails from Springfield, O. He enlisted as a soldier in the Union army in 1861, was commissioned major of the Third Ohio volunteer infantry and promoted to lieutenant-colonel of this regiment in 1862. He was appointed brigadier-general November 30, 1861, for gallant and meritorious services in the battles of Opequan, Fisher's Hill and Cedar Creek, Va. On July 1, 1865, he was appointed major-general for gallant and distinguished services during the campaign ending in the surrender of the insurgent army under Gen. R. E. Lee. During the civil war he fought in 28 battles, great and small, and was present at the surrender of Lee at Appomattox. General Keifer was severely wounded in the battle of the Wilderness.

MRS. RUTH BRYAN LEAVITT.

The great interest in politics shown by the women of the United States this year is perhaps the strongest ever known. Women's clubs are actively endorsing the candidates in states where they cannot vote, and in equal suffrage states are actively engaged in work for their candidate. It is now rumored that Mrs. Ruth Bryan Leavitt, the daughter of William Jennings Bryan, may be democratic delegate to the national convention from Colorado, a woman's suffrage state. It is planned if she is at the convention she will have the honor of presenting her father's name for consideration.

FORAKER DEFENDS CHARGE

UNDERTAKES TO SHOW MISUSE OF FEDERAL PATRONAGE.

Cites Case at Athens, O., But Postmaster General Meyer Early Refutes the Accusation.

Washington, Feb. 11.—Riding to a question of personal privilege, Senator Foraker Monday replied in the senate to the denial by President Roosevelt of charges that he has used federal patronage for the purpose of influencing the national political contest.

The senator produced correspondence relating to the appointment of Charles H. Bryson, whose nomination as postmaster at Athens, O., was withheld temporarily for the alleged reason that Bryson had given an interview while in Washington expressing the opinion that Taft was losing ground in the Ohio contest. The correspondence showed that Bryson had stood his ground and his declaration of political independence had resulted in another order from the White House making the appointment.

The communication on the subject was between Representative Douglass of Ohio and Mr. Bryson. In a very temperate manner Senator Foraker commented on the case, but insisted that the records clearly showed an attempt to "coerce" Bryson and that his fearless stand had been responsible for his retention by the president. The senator said that there was no exaggeration to say that there are a hundred cases in Ohio where the appointments had been made for political purposes only, but there are a few where documentary evidence can be produced.

Commenting upon Senator Foraker's remarks, Postmaster General Meyer later gave out the following: "I do not understand Senator Foraker's charge in the senate because his statement itself shows that notwithstanding the president know that Postmaster Bryson favored Foraker, he sent in Bryson's name for postmaster at Athens, O. The president had previously directed me to hold up the nomination, it having been alleged to him that Bryson had been guilty of corruption and had been a violent opponent of the administration's policies. After looking up the matter I notified the president that the charges had been investigated, were not sustained, and proved to be wholly unjustifiable. The president then directed me to send in his name. It was accordingly sent in as soon as the senate resumed after the Christmas holidays. When the president gave this direction to send this name in he and I knew that Bryson was a friend to Senator Foraker."

The moving picture business of the country which this combination controls represents an investment, it is said, of $50,000,000.

TRAIN WRECKERS IN MONTANA.

Try to Ditch Two Express Trains—Freight is Derailed.

Butte, Mont., Feb. 11.—After two attempts to wreck two Oregon Short Line express trains Sunday night, train wreckers succeeded in derailing a freight. Two suspects are in custody. All three attempts were made at a lonely spot near Silver Bow Junction. The would-be wreckers bungled, however, as the train heaped on the track were not derailed and were easily swept aside. The north-bound express from Salt Lake hit a pile of ties. The engine remained on the rails. A few moments later the south-bound train hit another bunch of beams. An hour later a south-bound freight was derailed by a switch thrown while the train was passing over it.

Buenos Ayres, Feb. 11.—Strained relations exist between President Alcor and congress, due to the senate and house of deputies refusing to deal with the matter for which they were especially summoned and the unwilling to sanction the annual budget. This course was followed by a decree closing the congress and it is thought trouble may ensue.

There is reason to believe, however, that an overwhelming majority of the people approve the policy of the government.

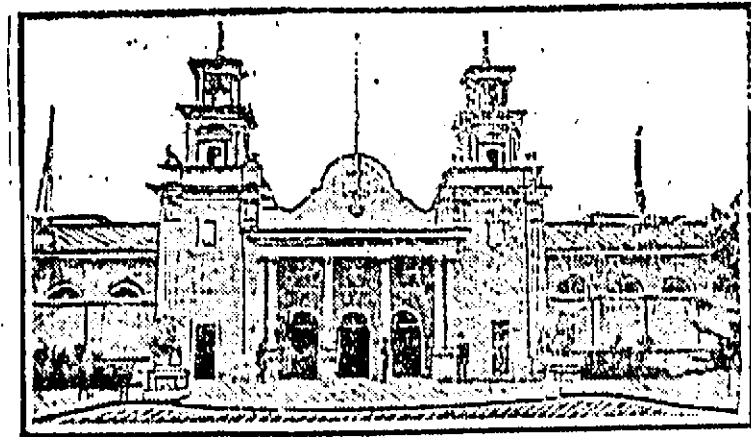

The government is in readiness to adopt every measure necessary for the maintenance of law and order and a state of order throughout the entire republic will be observed on the first sign of an organized subversive movement. Entrance to the Florida Mid-winter International exposition at Jacksonville, Fla., Feb. 12.—The formal opening of the Florida Mid-winter International exposition occurred on January 25 at noon amid the booming of cannons and the cheering of the thousands of persons who had gathered at the exposition grounds. President Roosevelt's message was read. It was as follows:

"William H. Seabring, Mayor, and the Honorary Advisory Board Florida Mid-winter International Exposition: I take great pleasure in opening the exposition, and in expressing the hope that the fullest measure of success may attend it. (Signed) 'THEODORE ROOSEVELT.'"

Among the guests of honor at the opening was Gov. S. B. Broward of Florida.

The exposition building is a magnificent structure, and the exhibits and attractions on the 'trails' are all high-class. Thousands of people visited the grounds this afternoon and tonight, and people are coming in on every train from surrounding towns. Tonight a magnificent fireworks display attracted hundreds to the exposition grounds.

An exhibit that would be worthy of the largest world's exposition is that made by the McCarron-Camp Stone company, near the center south entrance of the Palace of Industry.

state, just as Oklahoma and has now ceased to be a territory and has acquired statehood.

JUDGE SAMUEL HAYES.

Oklahoma is the youngest state in the Union. Hence, it becomes appropriate enough that the presiding justice of its supreme court should be the youngest chief justice in the history of the United States. This jurist is the Hon. Samuel Hayes, who was born in 1875, and who is therefore just 32 years of age on the day when he was elected to the supreme court of Oklahoma.

Mr. Hayes is a native of Arkansas, but when very young his family removed to Texas, where he grew up amid fields of sugar cane, corn and cotton, in which he worked industriously so as to save sufficient money for his education at the University of Virginia. Upon graduating from that university he began legal practice in the Indian Territory, out of which was carved the territory. He took an active part in the formation of the constitution, bringing to bear upon its problems an alert and original mind, which was nevertheless sane in resisting wild and impracticable theories advanced by members who had never even read the federal constitution. He so impressed the people as to win for himself an election to his present office by a majority of 30,000 votes, although he was opposed by the Hon. F. E. Gillett, a justice of the local United States court, and conceded to be both an able lawyer and an upright judge.

Thus it is that Mr. Hayes holds the chief judicial position in his state at an age so youthful as would render him ineligible for election to the presidency, and only two years above the age required of a senator of the United States. Among well-known jurists in our history, the only one who attained so high an office very early was John Jay, who became chief justice of the state of New York in 1777. Jay was made chief justice in the same year that New York ceased to be a colony of the Crown, and became a

CRYING FOR HELP.
Lots of it in Janesville But Daily Growing Less.

The kidneys cry for help. Not an organ in the whole body so delicately constructed. Not one so important to health. The kidneys are the filters of the blood. When they fail the blood becomes foul and poisonous. There can be no health where there is poisoned blood. Backache is one of the first indications of kidney trouble. It is the kidney's cry for help. Head it. Donan's Kidney Pills are what is wanted. Are just what overworked kidneys need. They strengthen and invigorate the kidneys; help them to do their work; never fail to cure any case of kidney disease. E. C. Abbott, of 278 South Main St. Janesville, Wis., says: "I have used Donan's Kidney Pills and found great relief from kidney trouble and backache. My trouble was a very weak back and persistent attacks of backache which almost kept me in my bed. The use of Donan's Kidney Pills procured at the People's Drug Co., has relieved me of these troubles and I have every reason to recommend them. For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. "How d'you do, Miss Hutchins?" "Thought you were at Asbury Park?" "How do, Miss Del Gracia?" "Have you been out in Millbank's motor yet?" "We broke down at McGowan's pass," said Miss Del Gracia, laughing the laugh that had made her so attractive in "A Word to the Wise." "Muddy gasoline," nodded Millbank, an iron jawed, overgrown man of forty with a florid face shaved blue.

"We asked Mr. Plank's big touring car," observed Lydia, a slender, black and white haired from her automobile seat. "How much does a car like that cost, Leroy?"

"About twenty-five thousand," he said gloomily. Then, looking up, "Told on, Millbank. Don't be going. Why can't you all dine with us? Never mind your car. Ours is all right, and we'll run out into the country for dinner. How about it, Miss Del Gracia?"

But both Miss Del Gracia and Miss Hutchins had accepted another invitation, in which Millbank was also included.

They stood about, well-dressed, leather decorated, and thrown back, lingering for a while to talk the garage type. Then Millbank looked at the clock, made his adieu to Lydia, nodded significantly to Mortimer and followed the others downstairs.

There was something amiss with his motor, for it made a startling racket in the street, finally plunging forward with a kick.

Lydia laughed as the two young girls in the tenniseau turned to nod to her in mock despair. Then she came running back upstairs, holding her skirt free from her hurrying little feet.

"Well?" she inquired, as Mortimer turned back from the window to confront her.

"I missed him," said Mortimer.

She flung the coat over a chair, stood a moment, her fingers busy with her hair pins, then sat down on the couch, taking time to her lap. She was very pretty, dark, slim, nervously graceful in her every movement.

"Don't you see him tomorrow?"

"I suppose so," slowly. "Oh Lord! How I hate this business!"

"Haven't he missed your confidence?" "Haven't he taken your money?" she asked. "It may be unpleasant for you to make him admit, but you're a coward if you don't!"

"I wish I'd held fast now. I never supposed Plank would take hold. It was that driving old balweiser who scared me stiff! The minute I saw him scurrying to cover like a sheep I was free enough to climb the first tree. I've had my lesson, little girl."

"I hope you'll give Howard his. Somebody ought to," she said quietly.

About half past six they dined in a white and pink dining room furnished in dull gray walnut and served by a stately, white haired, pink skinned butler.

"They had planned to go for a spin in Mortimer's motor after dinner, but in view of the Quarrier fiasco neither was in the mood for anything.

"Do you know, Leroy," she observed as they left the table and sauntered back into the pale blue drawing room, "do you know that the servants haven't been paid for three months?"

"Oh, for heaven's sake," he expostulated, "don't begin that sort of thing. I got enough of that at home. I get it every time I show my nose!"

"I only mentioned it," she said carelessly. "You had an opportunity to make Howard pay you back. What are you going to do?"

"Oh?"

"Of course. You are going to do something, I suppose. You haven't yet told me how you intend to make Howard return the money you lost through his juggling with your stock."

"I don't exactly know myself," admitted Mortimer, still overflushed. "I mean to put it to him squarely as a debt of honor that he owes. I asked him whether to invest. He never warned me not to. He is morally responsible."

She nodded.

"I'll tell him so," blustered Mortimer, shaking himself into an upright posture and laying a pudgy clenched fist on the table. "I'm not afraid of him! He'll find that out too. I know enough to stagger him. Not that I mean to use it. I'm not going to have him think that my demands on him for my own property are reasonable extortion. I've had a mind to shake that money out of him in one way or another."

He struck the table and looked at her for further sign of approval.

"I'm not afraid of him," he repeated. "I wish to God he were here, and I'd tell him so."

She said coolly, "I was wishing that too."

For awhile they sat silent, reoccupied, avoiding each other's direct gaze. When she rose he started, watching her in a dazed way as she walked to the telephone.

"Shall I?" she asked quietly, turning to him, her hand on the receiver.

"Wait. What are you going to do?" he stammered.

"Call him up, shall I?"

A dull throb of fright pulsed through him.

"You say you are not afraid of him, Leroy?"

"No," he said, with an oath. "I am not. Go ahead!"

She unlocked the receiver. After a second or two her low, even voice sounded. There came a pause. She rested one elbow on the walnut shelf, the receiver tight to her ear. Then:

"Mr. Quarrier, please. Yes, Mr. Howard Quarrier. No, no name. Say that Miss Vase insists on speaking to him. Yes, I'll hold the wire."

She turned the receiver at her ear, and looked narrowly at Mortimer.

"Won't he speak to you?" he demanded.

"I'm going to find out. Hush a moment!" and in the same calm, almost childish voice: "Oh, Howard, is that you? Yes, I know I promised not to do this, but that was before things happened. Well, what am I to do when it is necessary. I tell you it is necessary. I am sorry it is not convenient for you to talk to me, but I really must ask you to listen. No, I shall not write. I want to talk to you tonight—now! Yes, you may come here if you care to. I think you had better come. Howard, because I am liable to continue ringing your telephone until you are willing to listen. No, there is nobody here. I am alone. What time? Very well; I shall expect you. Goodbye."

She hung up the receiver and turned to Mortimer.

"How coming up at once. Did I say anything to scare him particularly?"

"One thing's sure as preaching," said Mortimer. "He's a coward, and I'm glad of it," he added naively, reflecting his cigar, which had gone out.

"If he comes up in his motor he'll be here in a few minutes," she said.

"Suppose you take your hat and go out. I don't want him to think what he will think. If he walks into the room and finds you waiting. You have your key. Leroy. Walk down the block, and when you see him come in to see him five minutes."

Her voice had become a little breathless, and her color was high. Mortimer, too, seemed apprehensive. Things had suddenly begun to work themselves out too swiftly.

"Do you think that's best?" he faltered, looking about for his hat. "Tell Mortimer that nobody has been here. If Quarrier should ask him. Do you think we're doing it in the best way, Lydia?" By God! It smells of a put up job to me. But I guess it's all right. It's better for me to just happen in, isn't it? Don't forget to put Mortimer wise."

He descended the stairs hastily. Mortimer, the butler, held his hat and gloves and opened the door for him.

Once on the street his impulse was to flee—get out, get away from the whole business. A sudden shiver was pumping the hot blood up into his neck and cheeks. An electric hush fell noisily upon him. He shrank back into the shadow of a porte cochere. The hansom halted before the blue light of the door. A tall figure left it, stood a moment in the middle of the sidewalk, then walked quickly to the front door. It opened and the man vanished.

The hansom still waited at the door. Mortimer, his hands shaking, looked at his watch by the light of the electric bulbs flanking the gateway under which he stood.

There was not much time in which to make up his mind, yet his fight was increasing to a pitch which began to stagger him with that coward's courage which it is impossible to reckon with.

Fumbling with his latchkey, but with sense enough left to make no noise, he let himself in, passed silently through the reception hall and up to the drawing room floor, where for a second he stood listening. Then something of the perversity of sportman sent the blood quivering into his veins. He had him. He had run him down! The game was at bay.

An flush of exhilaration steeled him. He laid his hand on the banister and mounted, gloves and hat brim crushed in the other hand. When he entered the room, he pretended to see only Lydia.

"Hello, little girl," he said, laughing. "Are you surprised to see me?"

At that moment he caught sight of Quarrier, and the start he gave was genuine enough. Never had he seen in man's visage such white concentration of anger.

"Rather unexpected, isn't it?" said Mortimer, starting at Quarrier.

"Is it?" returned Quarrier in a low voice.

"I suppose so," sneered Mortimer. "Did you expect to find me here?"

asked the other, with emphasis unmistakable.

To Dine Once a Year with Cat.

An eccentric old lady, a spinster of Aberdeen, left a legacy of $10,000 to a nephew, providing that he "have a year to dine with him every New Year's day." This had been a custom of the old lady herself for a long period, and she devoutly believed it insured her good luck. William Fife.

Glasgow, Scot., Feb. 12.—William Fife, the yacht designer, is still in a very serious condition from the injuries sustained in his accident of last Saturday. While superintending the construction of Sir Thomas Lipton's new racing yacht Mr. Fife fell from the deck into the hold.

He struck his head and was rendered unconscious. He was carried to his home, where he was unconscious for many hours.

William Fife has been known over the entire yachting world for his wonderfully light masts, his greatest reputation for startling innovations in this line being achieved by the Shamrock III, which in its launching at Dartmouth on the Clyde seemed a mere cockle shell.

The schooner Geely and the cutter Lucia, built in 1902, which were designs of Fife, won many victories. Fife himself sailed the Yama to victory in the Oswego Yacht club regatta in 1899, gaining considerable notoriety. It foreshadowed the full confidence reposed in him by Sir Thomas Lipton in planning for the international races.

After launching the Kestral one of the few failures, for John B. Mills, of the New York Yacht club, Fife sent the Canada to many victories in Lake Ontario, where George Watson's creations were practically swept off the seas.

Fife has been a victim of rheumatism and recurrent ill health, which have interfered with the complete realization of his schemes for racer-built craft. He worked all last summer on plans for another contestant at Lipton's behest, and later showed great surprise at the nature of the challenge sent to America.

Greatest Compliment.

TYRUS COBB, OF THE TIGERS.

Tyrus Cobb certainly does things right whether it be swatting a three-bagger or drawing a contract. He is the pet of Hugh Jennings and Detroit and Kansas City. Therefore he has decided to capitalize his popularity and for the present, at least, will not sign the regular contract and has returned it to Naylor with his compliments and a fat letter stating his case. He insists that he must have $5000 a year. This is a little high, but listen further. He wants a three years' contract. Detroit will be glad to gamble on his future to that extent, but the real jolt comes when he adds an accident clause and demands that the contract shall hold and money be paid just the same whether he is playing ball or out of the game by sickness or accident. In view of the generous treatment of the Detroit team in the past these terms are considered exorbitant and Naylor is firm in declaring he will never sign such a contract. Cobb says he will play semi-pro ball and coach college baseball teams, at which he can make the $5000 or better. It is generally thought, however, that the Georgian will be on hand when the Tigers go into training at Hot Springs, and that a satisfactory contract will be agreed upon.

Cook's Great Record.
"Concentrate your mind on the oven," said Miss Teresa McDonald of Boston in explaining the wonders of her art in pastry cooking. She owns to the proud record of 391,000 pies baked in 40 years at one restaurant, besides scores of other delicacies. If all her pies were laid out in a row they would reach 70 miles. She has made 2,000,000 doughnuts in 27 years and 788,400 puddings.

Cement for Glass.
Melt a little isinglass in spirits of wine; add a small quantity of water; warm the mixture gently over a moderate fire. When mixed by thoroughly melting it will form a perfectly transparent glue, which will unite glass so nicely and firmly that the joint will scarcely be noticed by the most critical eye.

Children Taught to Save.
Children attending elementary schools in Devonshire, England, are to be taught the virtue of thrift. The use of the savings bank is to be explained to them and in every school in which a postoffice savings bank is not available the educational authorities recommend that a "penny" bank be established.

Fly's Wonderful Agility.
A fly so minute as to be almost invisible ran three inches in half a second, and was calculated to make no less than 540 steps in the time a man could breathe once. A man with proportionate agility could run 24 miles in a minute.

MORSE IS ACCUSED OF GRAND LARCENY

NEW YORK GRAND JURY INDICTS THE FINANCIER TWICE.

BAIL IS FIXED AT $20,000

Former Bank, Ice and Steamship Magnate Is Due to Land Saturday from Quick European Trip.

New York, Feb. 11.—The grand jury for New York county, which has been investigating certain business transactions involving some of the banks with which Charles W. Morse, the organizer of the American Ice company and the Consolidated Steamship company, until recently was identified, returned five indictments Monday. Three of these indictments had to do with liquor tax cases, while two indictments charged grand larceny.

The indictments were not made public, but in asking that a good-sized bail bond be required, District Attorney Jerome stated to the court that the two charges of grand larceny were laid against "a man now on his way over here" from Europe. Following the court proceedings it was stated authoritatively that the man referred to by Mr. Jerome was Charles W. Morse, who sailed for Liverpool a week ago Saturday on the Campanian but is now returning upon the advice of his counsel.

Morse Due Next Saturday.
Mr. Morse is a passenger on the Cunarder Europa due here late next Saturday. The grand jury, it is learned, has ordered other indictments in connection with its investigation into banking affairs.

When the jury appeared before Justice Dowling in the supreme court District Attorney Jerome said: "Your honor, two of these papers in that batch are indictments on which I would like to have bail fixed. I would suggest $20,000 on one of them and nothing on the other."

His bail will be $20,000. Justice Dowling looked through the indictments and replied: "I suggest that bail be fixed at $10,000 on each of them."

This was agreeable to Mr. Jerome. Among the matters which the grand jury looked into was a transaction in which two notes for $200,000 figured. The federal grand jury, which also has been investigating the banking situation, concluded its day's session Monday without handing down any indictments.

JEWISH WEDDING STOPPED.
Winnipeg Police Consider It Violation of Lord's Day Act.

Winnipeg, Man., Feb. 11.—Sunday afternoon a squad of police raided Sherry Shumway's synagogue and stopped a wedding being performed there on the ground that the Lord's day act says no work must be done on the Sabbath. It was the first wedding scheduled for the new synagogue, the contracting parties being two of Winnipeg's most popular young people in Jewish society. The event has been the topic of conversation in Jewish circles for weeks past and the crowd was so great that the synagogue would not contain all the guests.

Just as Rabbi Levine, who was assisted by Rabbi S. Goldstein, started the ceremony, several policemen appeared and forbade the ceremony, taking the names of the persons. Application will be made to the attorney general for leave to prosecute, his sanction being necessary in all cases under the Lord's day act. A full band had been engaged for the ceremony, and each bandman will also be prosecuted.

REJECTED LOVER SLAYS.

He was 72 years old and remained in active practice until about three years ago. Mr. Jenks is survived by his widow and one daughter, the wife of former Congressman H. F. Shively of Indiana.

Boston Broker a Suicide.

Boston, Feb. 11.—After leaving a note in explanation that his act was due wholly to financial reverses, Frank Harris, a Boston broker, committed suicide by shooting at the Hotel Lenox. Mr. Harris was about 50 years old.

Big Fire in Litchford, Ont.

New Litchford, Ont., Feb. 11.—A fire in Litchford Sunday night caused an estimated loss of $100,000. The King Edward hotel, Alexandria hall, Empire Lumber company, the post office, assay office and other buildings are a total loss.

TOBACCO COMPANY INDICTED.

Kentucky Grand Jury Accuses It of Trust Methods.

Lexington, Ky., Feb. 11.—The first indictment ever brought in Fayette county against a so-called trust was returned Monday when the grand jury handed in a "true bill" to the court, indicting the American Tobacco company on a charge of conspiracy.

This indictment is the direct result of Judge Parker's order to the grand jury to investigate the tobacco situation in this city and county. It charges the American Tobacco company with conspiracy and planning to reduce the price of raw material.

Sails Away with Libeled Vessel.

Pensacola, Fla., Feb. 11.—Despite the fact that his vessel had been seized by the United States marshal on a libel for $8,000, Capt. Ray of the German steamer Dolio weighed anchor Monday and sailed for Rotterdam. The matter has been reported to Attorney General Bonaparte, at Washington, and it is expected that a revenue cutter will be sent in pursuit of the steamer.

Receiver for Appleton Waterworks.

Milwaukee, Feb. 11.—Upon application of the Continental Security company of New York, Judge Quarles in the United States district court Monday appointed J. A. Hawes receiver for the Appleton Waterworks company of Appleton, Wis. The receiver was appointed because of an unpaid claim of $10,000.

Preventing Electrolysis.

Modest Request.

Mrs. Turtle—I see by the papers here that an automobile ran down a 20-foot embankment and turned turtle. Now, Henry, what I want you to do is to run up a 20-foot embankment and turn into an automobile. You know I've wanted one this long while.—Circle Magazine.

A Deathbed Scene.

"I took one ball too many," sighed the moth, sinking back into his soft bed, "but I feel that I have not lived in vain. Please carve on my tombstone the simple epitaph, 'Died in the Wool.'"

WHAT IS YOUR OPINION?

The Gazette wants the opinion of the ladies on the following question:

WHO PAYS FOR THE ADVERTISING?

We will award three prizes for the best opinions

PRIZES TO LADIES ONLY

1st prize - $3.00
2nd prize - 2.00
3rd prize - 1.00

All opinions must be sent to this office by 6:00 p. m. Thursday, Feb. 13. They must be written in 200 words or less, and on one side of the paper only. Sign the opinion with a fictitious name and enclose your true name on a separate piece of paper.

Remember, the question is: WHO PAYS FOR THE ADVERTISING? This refers only to advertising in THE GAZETTE. To give an example of meritorious advertising and its results, let us take two merchants, one an advertiser and the other a non-advertiser.

THE NON-ADVERTISER. Let us suppose, spends $75 each month for rent, $200 each month for salaries, and $75 a month for light, heat, and incidentals, amounting to $4,200 as his total expense for one year. From this total expense he has been able to sell enough goods to make him a GROSS profit of $7,000, from which he deducts his expense $4,200, leaving him $2,800 for his remuneration and interest on his investment.

THE ADVERTISER sells the same goods at the same prices. His rent is the same as the non-advertiser, his salaries the same, his incidental expense is the same, but he adds on to this $50 a month for advertising which brings his total expense to $4,800. He finds, however, that the $50 each month for advertising has enabled him to increase his sales in the year, and that his gross profits are $8000, from which he deducts the total expense of $4,800, leaving him $3,200 for remuneration and interest.

Now, the question, who pays the $50 each month for this advertising? The advertiser surely is ahead because his net profits are $3,200, while the non-advertiser only made $2,800. The consumer buys the same goods at the same prices, so they do not pay it.

WHO PAYS FOR THE ADVERTISING?

What is your opinion? Let us have it today.

MAY 10th IS THE DATE

Set for the Closing of the Snow College of Dressmaking

It was first anticipated that we would be able to continue until July but we stated in previous advertisements, but we are compelled to close earlier on account of heating elsewhere next year.

This is absolutely the last chance for ladies to learn to sew and make sewing a pleasure instead of a bother. By our system you are enabled to make, design and fit dresses, suits, etc., from any pictured effect, or you can work out any imagined pattern or design.

We have demonstrated to over a hundred ladies in Janesville that they can sew with ease and accuracy, making their own patterns, obviating the necessity of making over the ordinary patterns purchased.

Our system teaches you dressmaking from a scientific standpoint and when once you have learned the system you will be able to do your own sewing for all time. The system of measurements is adaptable to any style, and for any garment. It requires about six weeks to learn and if you start now you will have sufficient time to learn and by doing your own spring and summer sewing you will be able to save enough to pay for the tuition.

Learn dressmaking now and you will be thankful all your life, and further, you can teach it to your children. Snow's system is based on scientific principles and will last forever.

Call at the class room and see the work in operation.

DOES IT PAY?

Does it pay to sell whole milk when you can get as much for the cream and still have the skim milk for feed?

Farmers, study this proposition carefully. Just because your father hauled milk to the factory don't think you are obliged to do the same.

There is no doubt, that with proper care and feeding the farmer who uses a hand separator and feeds his skim milk will be richer at the end of the year than the farmer who hauls his milk to the factory.

Figure how many calves and pigs you can raise with a hand separator and how much time and money you save on the hauling proposition.

Ship us your cream and let us prove to you that Janesville is the best market for cream. Come and see us and learn our way of doing business. All that is fair in weight, test, and price.

First Aid for Poisoned Dogs.

In case of poisoning, snail oil given immediately in liberal quantities will counteract the poison until you can get a doctor. Novels at Night Time.

A writer in Queen says that after ten o'clock at night the mind is a sieve and it does not make any difference what we read so that the type is legible, and light novels are good night-caps. A detective story at bedtime is to many people as good as a sleeping powder, swifter the mind away from the worries of the day and soothing it preparatory to sleep.
